FOREWORD

To relate the traditions, the accomplishments and the ambitions of the Wellesley of 1928-1929, and to preserve them for the future is the purpose of this book. May it bring as much pleasure to those who read it as it has to those who have made it.

DEDICATION

To the happy memory of Alice Freeman Palmer, professor, president and trustee of Wellesley College, 1879-1902, this book is dedicated by the class of 1929. An inspiring teacher, a brilliant leader and lover of her kind, her vivid personality has enriched the college not only for twenty-three years but for all time.

TRADITIONS

Memory—store-chest of fact and dreams,
Rich hoard of Treasure from College to hear;
Memory—note-book of jottings it seems,
Hastily entered, but in meaning so dear.

Flip back the leaves—your deeds, your ambitions,
The College you found here, what you learned of each part.
Read again the pages with Wellesley's Traditions—
The notes that you scribbled, locked away in your heart.

Before the famed fire
That burned College Hall,
There were many old customs
That survived not at all:
And the Founder'd be startled
Seeing modern conditions—
College girls all with freedom
And his ideas just traditions.

Every morning, every girl
Was made in her room to stay
Alone, for half an hour,
To mediate and pray.

The old-fashioned statues that graced College Hall
Classic and stately, dignified, tall,
Every so often—
Why no one knows—
Were dressed up by the students
In their modern clothes.

Monday was a holiday
To keep the students fresh and gay,
After Sunday's inspiration
Set apart for recreation,
Favored day, Tradition states—
The only one allowed for dates.

Practical arts with our dreams and theories?
The scrubbing pail and the fountain pen?
Shall we leave our books for the mop and brushes?
Have a cleaning day in Spring as then,
In the old days?
They dressed themselves as scrubbing women
Got down on their knees one day
On the library and chapel steps
And scoured the dirt away.

The first Sunday chapel every Fall—
Old favorite hymns that echo above
Through the old, high beams,
And a light through the stained-glass windows
That gleams on the choir-girls' sweet, grave faces.
And the text of the sermon—"God Is Love."

For the first time officially
The Seniors appear,
At the first morning chapel
Each new college year.
In procession they march
With a dignity new,
Try to look as the faculty
Preceding them do.

Wellesley freshmen,
Scared and small,
Understanding not at all—
Life so new and things so mixing,
Complications, need of fixings,
What to do and when to do it,
Wants some fun and can't pursue it:
Worries, doubts—things that bother
If written home to "Mums" and Father.
But some Sophomore, Junior, Senior,
Lends a helping hand to guide her,
Through her troubles and adjustments
Takes Big Sister's place beside her.

Wellesley Traditions . . . CONTINUED

"Cap and gown" notes
Are Traditional too
A tie for the Seniors,
From the old to the new.
They come in the Fall
After summer vacation
With a wish for good luck
And congratulation.

With lanterns gleaming in the dark
And songs of greeting gay,
The Sophomores march down to the "vil"
Singing all the way,
To serenade the freshmen
With welcoming song and cheer,
To wish them luck and happiness
All through the coming year.

The Freshmen feeling honored
Return the serenade,
Singing for each campus house
Songs that they have made.

On a dim and frosty morning
When we're curled up in our beds,
With dreams of Christmas holidays
Circling through our heads,
Half awake, scarce realizing,
As we hear faint voices rising
In melodious carols slow
From the living-room below,
That today we leave for home.
Then the carolled songs beat louder,
Shuffling footsteps pad the hall,
Doors quick opened, glimpse of figures
Muffled white, and looming tall
In the flickering candle light,
Sophomores shutting windows tight,
With a merry Christmas call.

Whenever we have elections,
Results are proclaimed by the class
As we gather on the chapel steps
Or crowd round on the grass.
The officers with flowers
And grins from ear to ear,
The rest of us applauding
Resounding cheer on cheer.
W-E-L-L-E-S-L-E-Y, Wellesley
Echoes and rings out clear.

When it's Spring at last and the days grow long
Night does not fall so soon.
Twilight creeps with a slower pace
Through the lengthening afternoon;
The first time comes one fine Spring night
When we eat without electric light.
Impatient through dinner, dessert we await—
Strawberry shortcake that heaps each plate.

Some people think that college girls
Have little chance to wed,
But if their charm is not enough
They've initiative instead.
The campus' natural beauties
With skill are utilized,
To snare a man successfully
And Tupelo Point is prized.

You take your man out walking,
Beside the lake he's led,
Along the narrow strip of land,
With peril o'er his head.
You take him once with no results,
The next, perhaps you'll win.
The third, if he does not propose
The lake!—you push him in.

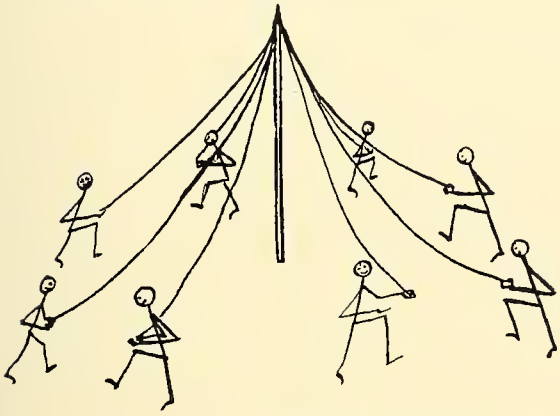
May-day, time of beauty, joy,
Youthful frolic, playful fun,
Wellesley Seniors roll their hoops,
Race down hill—the day's begun,
With gowns tucked up and caps awry
Fight to win the race, and why?

On the chapel steps, the prize
A wedding bouquet, mammoth size,
And the victor, this you'll see,
Before the rest a bride will be.



In the afternoon all join
In the pageantry and play,
Round the Maypole dance and sing
Welcoming the first of May.
Honor gaily, on the green,
The Freshman president—May Queen.
After dinner, voices ringing
By the chapel door, step singing.

Early evening in early June,
Gathering crowds by the lake,
A band on shore plays a happy tune
And flashing oars through the water break.
Class boats are speeding swift and straight—
Cheering from everyone—
And a Wellesley W made by the four
After the race is run.
A spotlight beams on the upheld oars
Of each boat, while its crew-song is sung.
Then round a jutting point come the floats,
In the brilliant gleam of the light,
Colorful pictures of fancy and story
On the black background of night.

In June—the Freshmen planting their Tree
With a spade handed down from class to class.
And all the College gathered to see
A colorful pageant danced on the grass.
The most beautiful Senior, dignified, tall,
Mistress of "Tree Day", rules over all.

In the evenings after dinner
In the pleasant Fall and Spring,
The chapel steps are crowded,
Students gathering to sing.
Standing at the left, the Freshmen
Quickly learning song and cheer;
At the right the Sophomores proudly
Feel their weighty extra year;
Near the chapel door the Juniors,
Heart and soul in each loved song,
Sorry for the band of Seniors
Who will leave their steps ere long.
After Tree Day—
Sad their rising, slow the marching,
Of that black line round the hill
In each heart a throbbing echo,
The farewell song, resounding still,
As they march away.

Seniors, midnight after graduation,
Farewells,—heads with sorrow bow,
Chapel steps again and singing,
College life is over now.

CLASS SONG

Estelle Scharfeld — Pauline Jones

Wellesley twenty-nine blend her song
A harmony deep and clear,
With chords that repeat the theme of the past
Striking tones of a future year
Pure melody of your voices strong
Listening hills echo far through the air
Oh Wellesley, music of love and truth
Chiming swiftly a glorious strain,
Which will ring in our memories
As we recall dreams of old
On endeared refrain.

CREW SONG

Lois T. Martin — Jeanne Hoffmann
Pauline Jones

When the evening shadows fall
And the lake is still and calm,
Out from shades of misty blue,
Out upon her silver surface;
With the water gently rippling,
Swiftly glides our boat "Blue Streak."
Send your song across Lake Waban,
Listen for the ringing echo.
Cheer them forward, ever onward,
Wellesley 'Twenty-Nine, and Crew.

MARCHING SONG

Anne Belle S. Wickham — Edith Hoffman
Arranged by Pauline Jones

As we march to the ring of our voices,
No matter what time it may be,
We will fervently sound Wellesley's praises
In a song that is joyous and free,
Come, join with a voice that is hearty;
Take a place in the swift moving line.
We march with our shoulders together,
And a cheer, yes! a cheer, 'Twenty-Nine!

CLASS HISTORY

FROM A SENIOR'S MEMORY BOOK

1925-'26

A dry, drab oak-leaf—where could it have come from? Oh, I remember, I picked it up that first Saturday morning, after that bewildering, gay, first week, as the Faculty and the Seniors marched into chapel. I'll never forget it—the solemn-faced Seniors moving slowly down the middle aisle of chapel, and around me, in our own transept, four hundred and fifty members of 1929. We were a class—a part of Wellesley at last. And Miss Knapp—she was part of our class even then—we were her first official charges, she was our first Dean of Freshmen.

A piece of a green lantern! Remember? We tramped up from the ville—collegiate in our white Spaulding sweaters, and awed by the applause of the Hill and Tower.

Here's a torn handkerchief and underneath, a single word, "Elections!" An early dinner—a casual stroll to Eliot—can you imagine four hundred and fifty Freshmen trying to be casual? Those steep dark stairs, a mass of excited, fighting girls, a hot crowded attic, a deep conviction that the girl next to you was a Sophomore—and everywhere, whispers, "Vote for that one" or, "I never heard of her." Then the rumor that a Sophomore was among us, a mad, wild searching in the darkness, some sort of peace again, a scribbling of pencils, a return into the early twilight, looks of askance at the superior smiles of the Sophomores on the curbing. Chapel the next morning—and didn't Ginny sleep behind locked doors that night or was that just another rumor—and hence, '29 was organized.

A snap-shot, do you remember that silly tandem?

More green tissue paper. Initiations—lady-like ones, however. We wore tall, green dunce caps (with variations) and carried umbrellas, and were made to salaam every time a Sophomore requested it. Didn't we have to make up complimentary verse at demand, too? And wasn't there some difference as to the meaning of complimentary?

A bit of pressed gardenia? The Sophomore-Freshman Prom! Your new evening dress, white gloves, a corsage, a taxi, Alumnae! An evening of dancing with upperclassmen and of feeling very young and unsophisticated.

The ballot—the time we expressed our ardent opinion about the smoking rule. And it was in the spring of this year that the phrase "walking over the line" began to be a Wellesley idiom.

Another leaf—but such a little one. Will you ever forget that Tree Day? The rain that drove everyone to shelter except a few brave souls who chased Al all the way to the Ad Building to that little tree? It's still a little tree and it has no roses to make it famous, but remember the blue bow it always wore?

A splinter of wood—from the handle of my blue lantern. We were upperclassmen now—living on campus, condescending to little sisters in the Village, watching the new experiment of Village Juniors with interest. This was the year we laid the foundation for a new tradition—the Freshmen had to endure no hazing. But will you ever forget the morning they announced their class officers? They had eluded our sleuths craftily, and we found our revenge in a historic fight on chapel steps.

Severance became a reality—and the Botany Building. The contour of Tower Court Hill changed, and the Observatory no longer stood alone on its hill. And dear, turreted Stone became another tradition. That unforgettable day! I was in a Phil. conference, deep in a discussion of what is Real, when some daring person dashed into the room crying, "Stone's on fire, Stone's burning." For a few moments we rushed frantically in and out of the building, helping to save everything from valuable microscopes to wax lillies. For a while it seemed as if we too were going to have a tale as important as the one that begins, "Well, when College Hall burned." But Stone went down in no such glory, it was torn down, brick by brick, and immediately men with blue-prints were seen in the Administration Building. Olive Davis and the new Stone were being planned!

Prom again—and we were the hostesses. Another tradition changed. We had a tea dance instead of a formal evening promenade. Nevertheless we managed to make the Freshmen for three long hours feel very young and unsophisticated!

"And the class of 1928 and all the following classes are to be congratulated on the privilege . . ."

1927-'28

A snap of the twenty-one of us who guarded the morals of '31 in the Village.

Here's my program from Prom—the Prom—the social event of a Wellesley season. Those colors, deep rose tulle, clinging green chiffon, gold lace, stately black velvet, and all the men one had heard of for two and a half years! And remember the beautiful snow-storm that came? It made campus so beautiful, even if it did ruin silver slippers and golden heels!

It was a quiet spring. The gloom that '28 and their guardian demon, Divisionals, spread touched our gaiety a little. Elections aroused us some, however, and we sent Al off on her famous non-stop flight with a worthy crew, and I'll admit I'm sentimental about

"As we march with our shoulders together."

And this was the year '28 lost their banner for such a while, and incidentally learned to keep the rumble seat of their cars locked!

Back again—important and impressive—at least in our own minds! Seniors in their cars, and what a collection we possessed, were especially affected by the complicated traffic light in the Square. And what a thrill all of us got about the new ten o'clock rule. No more getting back to the village at the prosaic hour of 7:30—we were free, independent, unhampered until ten!

Another snap-shot—the first day I wore my cap and gown. I remember I had my choker on wrong side out and the strings of my gown tied high in front! But those chokers proved to be too great torture for us. We voted to use the small, linen, informal collars instead—except for Baccalaureate and Commencement. We couldn't resist the temptation to impress our families then!

A note to remind me of my Legenda sitting. "Now don't look so serious—smile!"

Here's a chance bit of wood—the Eliot fire that for a few moments promised to be exciting. But once again the fates were kind—and only one lone Freshman had to "sleep out."

What does the artificial violet mean? I remember, our torch-light parade at Election Time. Cars of notables—Hoover and Curtis, Governor and Mrs. Smith, Thomas, Will Rogers—all were with us and practically the whole college appeared, remember? The Faculty as the Unintelligent Vote did themselves proud, and the Great Army of the Unemployed walked side by side with the Society Ladies from the Hill and the Big Business Men from Tower.

'31 came into the limelight that fall as this clipping from News proves—'32 had a peaceful election, due to a timely truce.

Olive Davis and Stone became inhabited right after Christmas vacation with Satisfied Seniors rejoicing at last in lakeview rooms! A bit of black crepe—Wilder in mourning because they, en masse, had to leave their happy home and cross the valley to Olive Davis.

Another clipping—our insistent pleadings had at last had an effect—Divisionals were moved forward three weeks. Will you ever forget that Monday . . . I'm never able to hear the words, May Sixth, without a queer feeling.

Prom—our fourth! Do you remember the class meeting we had to decide whether it would be a costume ball or not? And as I remember, a large majority of us felt that satin knee-breeches and lace cuffs somehow didn't seem to be consistent with football heroes or a Harvard accent! And this was the year we began to cut down on expenses—no engraved invitations, simpler decorations, fewer frivolities. Our age was making us practical!

Commencement Week—chapel filled with solemn seniors, Alumnae crowded with proud parents and excited girls flourishing diplomas, midnight step-singing.

Suddenly it had happened—'29 had graduated!

MISS FRANCES L. KNAPP

IT SEEMS peculiarly fitting that Miss Knapp should be enrolled as a member of the class of 1929. She belongs doubly to us—not only because she is herself a distinguished Wellesley daughter, but because it was with us as her first class that she undertook the responsibilities of Dean of Freshmen.

Miss Knapp was graduated from Wellesley in 1902. During her four years of college, she found time to devote herself to a wide variety of activities. At one time she held the purse strings of her class, and in her senior year she was President of Christian Association. Her society is Agora. But the demands of activities appear to have done nothing to diminish her superiority in the class room, for she was awarded the Durant scholarship for excellence in academic work in her senior year. Many of Miss Knapp's former professors are today guiding us in the way of knowledge—Miss Waite, Miss Hart, Miss Hubbard, Miss Fletcher, Miss Merrill and Miss Orvis. At that time Miss Pendleton was Secretary of, and later, Dean of the College, and it was in Miss Knapp's sophomore year that Miss Hazard came to Wellesley as President.

Twenty-seven years in the existence of a college bring with them many changes. Some aspects of the Wellesley of Miss Knapp's undergraduate years are preserved only in memory. Those were the days of old College Hall, when dormitory, class rooms, library and chapel were all under one roof, and Monday was a sacred day set aside for rest and meditation. But there are precious bonds that link the present strongly with the past. Some of our most treasured traditions were inaugurated during Miss Knapp's student years. It was an exceptionally enterprising class that departed from the regime of faculty rule, and formulated our present system of student government. We are indebted to the class of 1902 for bringing into being the most popular of all traditions for the true hearted daughter of Wellesley, "the song she loves to sing by the old chapel steps." Still another tradition was created in the afternoon May Day pageant, when the senior and freshmen presidents as prince and princess first took part in the romance which was to be renewed every spring.

In the years immediately following her graduation, Miss Knapp taught English literature and history at Northfield Seminary in East Northfield, Massachusetts. She remained there for five years, until 1907, when she came to Wellesley as Secretary of Christian Association. In the following year she became Assistant Principal at Ferry Hall in Lake Forest, Illinois, where she spent the years from 1908 to 1912. From Ferry Hall she went to Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, and held there the office of registrar for three years, at the same time teaching history, government, and later economics. But the desire to study further in the fields of history and international law caused her to leave Wilson College and begin research at Radcliffe in the fall of 1915. However, before the year was half through, Miss Knapp was called to Wellesley as Secretary of the Board of Admissions. Her interrupted study was resumed ten years later, albeit in a different form, for she took an M.A. in Education here in the spring of 1925. She has remained at Wellesley ever since 1916, as Secretary of the Board of Admissions until 1925, and since that time with the additional duties of Dean of Freshmen.

DR. ROBERT A. MILLIKAN

ROBERT A. MILLIKAN—the name conjures up before the mind an awesome procession of associations—radiant energy, atomic mechanics, and cosmic rays—erudite degrees, learned societies, and brilliant scientific awards. Yet one does not find in Dr. Millikan the eccentric and unworldly recluse that might be expected of such a great intellect. He is a truly modern scientist, a man of forward looking vision and imagination, who dares to broaden his concepts to build up new and startling truths, even when it necessitates tearing down old and well established traditions. For it is Dr. Millikan who has done perhaps more than any other to shatter the recently accepted basis of physical science by his astonishing discoveries in the field of atomic structure.

Dr. Millikan was born in Morristown, Illinois, in 1868. His father was a Congregational minister, and both parents were descended from a long New England line. When Robert Millikan was seven years old, he moved with his family to Maquoteka, Iowa. Like most other small boys, he attended the local school, and specialized in the three R's. After completing his high school course, he entered Oberlin College in Ohio, where his parents had met as students. Greek especially interested him during his first two years. It was purely by chance that science became his life work, through an offer at the end of his sophomore year of a position as teacher of physics. Up to that time his knowledge of physics had been gleaned from the intermittent instruction he had received from a friend during the summers of his high school years. But he immediately undertook acquainting himself more thoroughly with the subject, and from that time forth physics was his vocation. He received his B.A. from Oberlin in 1893, and two years later his M.A., continuing to teach physics at the same time. From Oberlin he went to Columbia, where he received a Ph.D. in 1895. During the following year he studied in Germany at Berlin and Gottingen. On his return from abroad Dr. Millikan was appointed to the Chair of Physics at the University of Chicago. In 1921, Dr. Millikan left Chicago for the California Institute of Technology, in Pasadena, where he has since been Director of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of Physics.

But such a cursory account of Dr. Millikan's life can give little insight into the brilliant contributions to science which have placed him in the front ranks of modern physicists. His achievements have been universally acclaimed, both here and abroad. He has been the recipient of many honorary degrees, and is a member of scientific societies of the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Holland, France, and Russia. The most valued of his scientific awards is the Nobel Prize in Physics, which he received in 1923 for the astounding feat of isolating and measuring the ultimate charge on the electron. It is in the fields of electricity, radiant energy, and atomic structure that he is best known to physicists for his versatile and successful work. Lately, however, his research in connection with the so-called cosmic rays has attracted widespread and interested attention. It is a great honor to claim this apostle of modern science as a member of the class of 1929.

MEN SAY that youth is charming in its ready adaptability to new conditions. And so it is, if the adaptability is not so complete as to cause youth to forget the old with the advent of the new. It is good for the soul to realize that progress comes but slowly and is built on the past. We sometimes wonder whether we Wellesley students are not forgetting something as we enjoy our new benefits. Figuratively speaking, the Village Seniors and House of Representatives are but vague memories in the minds of the Seniors. And yet the death of the House meant a change in the form of government. College Government is no longer a directly representative government. It is now an oligarchy of experts, we hope. The rule of the Village Senior has given way to the guidance of the Village Junior. Student opinion is expressed through the Student Elastic Committee. We wish we could say that the Committee functions as well as the Village Juniors. For it is rather discouraging to find that only twenty-five or so, out of fifteen hundred students, care enough about their welfare and that of the College as a whole to voice their opinions. This may, however, be indicative of a complete trust for which College Government's officials would be more grateful if they were sure it was not blind.

The purpose of this last regime of College Government has been to make the rules consistent and to relate them to the spirit of the times. The Senate does not promise to change a rule to suit every passing whim, but it does recognize the changes in keeping with Wellesley standards. Specific changes include the closing hour of the dormitories at 10:00 instead of 9:45 p. m., and the shortening of hours for musical instruments. After much discussion of Sunday rules, the movie rule was rescinded and sports allowed after 2:00 p. m. Seniors have been granted the privilege of remaining outside of Wellesley until 10:00 p. m. It is gratifying to note that this freedom, although constantly used, has not been abused. This could not be said of the smoking rule at first, but now that the novelty has worn off, it seems to meet the requirements of the situation with a minimum of friction.

The whole question of chaperon rules has been critically examined and several important changes made. A student must report either in person or by telephone by 8:00 p. m., except Seniors who may report by 10:00. Evening quiet hours have been changed accordingly to begin at 8:00 p. m. and last without interruption until 6-45 a. m.

In spite of the changes in rules, the machinery of College Government has functioned smoothly. In its arrangement of the non-academic activities of the lives of the students, it has kept in mind the best interests of neither the faculty opposed to the students, nor the individual to the group, but of the College as a whole.

THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION is an organization which seeks to meet the needs of, and to give expression to, the religious life of the college. It stands, therefore, for a positive spiritual force and for practical service. It has, however, not only a serious side, but a play side which is the first to become known. Christian Association "Ask-me" girls meet the Freshmen on their arrival. Placards and arrows help to direct them about campus. Later the Association entertains the incoming class at a tea and a vaudeville, and finally sees that each Freshman has an upperclassman. A meeting to present its serious side is held during the first week, and throughout the year meetings with special speakers are held every Wednesday evening in the village. Meetings on campus are also held, the ones last fall dealing with personal religion. Other local activities include the arrangements for the Faculty-Student suppers, the placing of students who wish to teach Sunday School, and work among the college maids, such as tutoring and giving them parties.

It is the social service work of Christian Association which, perhaps, appeals to most people. Wellesley girls go into Boston to settlement houses where they take charge of the playground or dancing classes, cooking classes, and even carpentry classes. A certain amount of case work is done, as well as work in the Home Libraries. At Christmas time dolls are dressed and sent to various hospitals.

Contacts with women in industry are also made. A number of Wellesley girls who are interested in social and economic problems meet several week-ends during the year with girls who are working in the shoe-factories in Brockton. They discuss problems which the Wellesley girls are studying and which the Brockton girls have actually experienced.

The activities of the Christian Association, however, are even broader than these. Each year the Conference Department arranges for Wellesley delegates to attend the Silver Bay and Poland Springs conferences, and others that may occur during the year. The World Fellowship Committee works with the Service Fund in extending its interest not only through our own country, but also into foreign lands. This year Service Fund is planning to send two Wellesley girls to work during the summer with Dr. Grenfell in Labrador. And lastly, since Christian Association is affiliated with the Student Department of the Y. W. C. A., it has a share in the support of local associations in this country. Through its connection with the Y. W. C. A. it is a member of the World Student Christian Federation, and so it has a small part in contributing to the work of National Student Christian Movements in forty-five countries.

The activities of the Christian Association are carried on in an effort to understand and to follow the teachings of Jesus, and so to gain a growing knowledge of God. It, therefore, encourages the growth of spiritual experience and provides an opportunity for the practical expression of this experience.

STUDENT COMMITTEE

Joy Masters, 1929, Chairman Eleanor K. Peck, 1930

THE Wellesley Student's Aid Society, though not a student organization, is for the benefit of students. Its purpose is to make Wellesley possible for those students who could not come to college without financial help. The college gives the scholarships and the Society gives additional assistance through gifts and loans.

Students' Aid is financed by alumnae, faculty, students, and friends of Wellesley through memberships and gifts. Each year a meeting is held in June, during reunion, at which representatives of the Wellesley Clubs all over the country report their contributions for the year. Each spring there is a campaign for student and faculty memberships.

The Society is not a mechanical one. It is an enthusiastic friendly one. Miss Paige and Miss Willis know each girl who needs assistance. They are constantly looking out for the well being of the girls who come to them, seeing that they receive a little extra loan or gift if the strength of just getting along is proving too much for them.

One hundred thirty eight students are being helped in some way by Students' Aid through 1928-29. Not only financial assistance is given. For instance, some caps and gowns are furnished to seniors and bicycles to freshmen in the fall. Everything that is possible is done to help the girls who are working their way through college and have less to spend than others. The Students' Aid Society is always ready to help. It cannot always do as much as it would like, but it always tries to. It is always standing by for emergencies with a friendly hand outstretched.

THE Barnswallows Association last spring presented another of the well known Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, Patience. As Pinafore had been very entertaining the year before, a second Gilbert and Sullivan was decided upon. Mr. George V. C. Lord again coached the production. The leading parts were taken by Norma Holzman,

Marion Knoblauch, Margaret McCarty, and Katherine Cast. One of the best features of the performance was the well trained and dashing chorus of heavy dragoons. These military men in their bright red and white uniforms contributed much to the success of the operetta.

Stephen Phillip's Paolo and Francesca was given for the June play. This was a very ambitious undertaking and it demanded the best of Barnswallows dramatic ability. Under the direction of Miss Edith Margaret Smaill the play was unusually well done. It was a fitting end to the careers of Helen Steers, Elsbeth Thexton, and Margaret McCarty. It may be of interest to note that Helen Steers and Margaret McCarty are going on with their work on the stage.

At this writing the plans for the year have not yet been completed. The season has begun, however, with a fair degree of success in the Fall Informals. The first play presented was James M. Barrie's Shall We Join the Ladies, an interesting sketch which left the audience wondering as to the ending. The second play Overtones, was one of the most artistic productions Barnswallows has ever done. The impressionistic set which was designed by Kathryn Albin, made a fitting background for the souls of Harriet and Margaret. A shade of purple was used in the archway behind Margaret, while green was seen through the other behind Harriet; the two colors blended at the center. The strange atmosphere of the play was increased by flames in the background. The effect of the whole was quite interesting. The last play was Booth Tarkington's Beauty and the Jacobin. As usual these three plays were coached and managed by the active members of the organization.

Barnswallows was very fortunate in bringing the Theater Guild to Wellesley as its first professional theatrical company. The Doctor's Dilemna by George Bernard Shaw was given. Although it was not possible to have Lynn Fontaine and Alfred Lunt, the performance was highly satisfactory.

Shaw's Arms and the Man was selected for the Fall Formal Play. The first performance was given for the benefit of the Wellesley Club of Boston. The play was repeated two other nights for the college. There was, as last year, a programme cover contest in which everyone could compete. For this competition the Art Department allowed the design classes to consider the cover as one of its regular problems.

Barnswallows tries not only to cooperate with the college but endeavors also to keep within itself a strong feeling of unity. The publicity department in advertising the plays on colored posters around the campus has been copying the actual scenery and costumes of the plays. Another development was the group of caricatures of the cast which increased interest in the players.

Perhaps the most interesting feature in Barnswallows programme this fall was the little theatre, a reproduction of Alumnae Hall stage complete with lights, curtains, etc., which was built by Mr. Fred Whitehouse. The committees tried out the scenery, properties, costumes, and lighting on a small scale before the actual work was begun.

By completing the play in miniature, last minute changes were avoided and a finished production was assured.

Other colleges are trying to improve their dramatic organizations also. In the interest of these associations a meeting was held at Wheaton on November 23rd. Anne Belle Wickham and Florence Sawyer represented Wellesley. The methods of the various clubs were compared and drama was discussed. Barnswallows this year is stressing its aim as a workshop where new methods and new ideas are encouraged.

SOCIETIES

SOCIETIES at Wellesley hold a unique position—they are not sororities, organized for purely social activities, nor are they any sort of departmental club, designed merely for further pursuit of academic work. They are rather, a combination of the two—an organized center around which the members work and play together. They have been a part of the college life since a year after its founding, with the exception of a brief eight years.

In 1876 Mr. Durant himself helped to organize Zeta Alpha and Phi Sigma "to help further the social life of the college and to pursue a definite line of work." Both these societies devoted their early study to some kind of literary work. In 1881 they were discontinued, the Faculty feeling that they interfered too much with the academic work of the members. They were reorganized eight years later.

Shakespeare Society was founded in April, 1877 and was at first allied with the London organization. In 1898 work was begun on their house—the first to be opened on the campus. From 1889 until 1912 this society always gave the commencement play.

In 1889, a charter was given to the Art Society of Wellesley College. Its purpose was "to give opportunity for additional study of art, to offer a stimulus to scholarly work and to promote good fellowship among the undergraduates." In 1894 this society took the Greek name Tau Zeta Epsilon and in 1900 the members opened a new home and presented the first studio reception to the college.

Agora is the outgrowth of the Cottage Street Political Club, founded with the entrance of the class of 1894. It became a college organization in 1891 "to create an intelligent interest in the political questions of the day, and by free discussion of them, to train its members to take an active and responsible position on all such questions."

In 1892 the Classical Society of Wellesley College came into being, and in 1897 this society reorganized under the name of Alpha Kappa Chi to further "appreciation of beauty of the classics." At first only those majoring in Greek or Latin were eligible for membership but later this restriction was removed. From this brief resume we can glimpse the early societies—open by invitation alone to members of the three upper classes.

It was in 1910 that a Society Congress was called by President Hazard. After five earnest meetings, this Congress introduced radical changes. Only Juniors and Seniors might apply for membership, and high academic standing, marked excellence in one department, or public-spirited service for those at least of diploma grade was necessary for acceptance. A Central Committee was set up which placed the girls with the help of an eligible list, the recommendations from society members, and the applications.

This plan was very successful and with a few changes is our present one. To-day the Central Committee is composed of six student members, one elected by each society, and a member of the Faculty. Members of the Junior and Senior classes apply for membership, naming the societies in preferred order. The societies, in turn, present to the Central Committee, a list of the girls they desire as members, and it is the work of the Committee to adjust these two lists as it seems wisest. Membership is now restricted to thirty-five girls in each society.

ATHLETICS

THE AIM of the Athletic Association has always been to provide such a variety of outdoor activities that every member of the college may find some recreation which appeals to her, and from which she may derive a great deal of pleasure and profit in both the social and technical sides. Though we naturally desire a large participation in organized athletics, we do not mean that every girl must take gym or a formal sport. If you prefer a game of tennis or golf, played on the spur of the moment, that is up to you. We consider that kelping to maintain the tennis courts and golf course for your use is a step in attaining our aim. And we hope that from your voluntary participation in sports you will carry over into the other aspects of your college life the standards of fair play and vigorous work which are such an integral part of all athletic contests.

The Athletic Association this year is fortunate in having such a firm foundation on which to build. This foundation is the result of many years' work and progress. During our Freshman year (1925-26) the system of seasonal sports (quite an innovation at that time), was inaugurated. It was adopted at first only as a trial measure, but proved so successful under the management of Virginia Wellington that it has been accepted ever since as the most effective way of running sports here at Wellesley. Our Sophomore year (1926-27) revolutionary changes in Athletic Association legislation were brought about under Rosalie Drake. The whole institution was renewed, and modernized. Who can forget the required house meetings at which we voted to accept as a whole, or in part, that lengthy constitution read to us by our A. A. officers? The new constitution and A. A. notes have been since this time preserved for future generations in the form of a blue-bound handbook, or Blue Book, re-edited by each new Executive Board.

Under Tony Deppler's skillful guidance during our Junior year (1927-28) the Athletic Association became even more popular. Her work was not so much the making of new rules as it was the reviving of an ancient urge for a Swimming Pool. All through the year, from the time of Fall Field Day, the proceeds of which were given to the Pool, till the spring, the drain gained in strength, until finally it culminated in an organized drive for funds. The response of the college to this move was extremely sporting. Almost every one turned to and did her bit toward providing a tile or a drop of water, and certain groups did enough to furnish the wherewithal for a future springboard or some such accessort. We will not soon forget the nightly sales of sandwiches, the service of Sunday breakfasts at the nedside, and various other equally ingenious methods of obtaining money for the cause. The grand total of the Fund was announced on Float Night to be $14,475, with a promise of $50,000 additional when we shall have reached our quota of $150,000. This object, the Swimming Pool, comes steadily nearer as the Fund is increased this year by private donations as well as the proceeds from Athletic Association events.

During the regime of the 1928-29 Executive Board there have been several highlights, the first of which was Spring Field Day. Postponed several times due to the rainy tendency of spring weather, it finally occurred on the morning of Tree Day, and was won by '28, in order that they should have made a clear sweep of all things of this sort during their college career. A particularly lovely Float Night was also added to the list of '28's victories, but so close was the score that '29 was first announced as the winner. Their pride was soon dashed to earth, however, when a new announcement was made: that '28 was the true winner, by one and a half points!

During the fall season two performances of Tony Sarg's Marionettes were given under the auspices of A. A., for the benefit of the Swimming Pool Fund, and for the decided enjoyment of all those who availed themselves of the opportunity to see "the fanciful mannikins." The next event of the fall was Field Day, won this time, in the absence of '28, by the Sophomore class, who seem to be endeavoring to outshine all the other athletically-inclined classes that have ever graced this institution of learning. And it must be said that they are coming very near this goal.

The most brilliant event in the sports world of Wellesley during the fall season was the visit of the All-England Touring Team which played our Wellesley Hockey team on November fifteenth. It was a gala occasion—bleachers, bright red programs, and crowds, to say nothing of the delightful accent of the English women, their Union Jacks flying so proudly, and the harmonica flourished by one of their number. The game was an excellent one, and there were many thrilling moments when the Wellesley goal succeeded in clearing some most difficult shots, or when, for a moment, our forward line seemed to threaten the English goal. The score, 10 to 0, does not tell the whole story. We like to supplement it with the words of the English captain, who said that the Wellesley team was much the fastest that the English had encountered up to that time on their tour.

During the winter season the Athletic Association was not idle. Two nights a week it offered voluntary indoor basketball, for which there was a very large enrollment. The Outing Club also contributed its share in unorganized sports throughout the year, the feature events being a most entertaining Treasure Hune that ended up in a pit party, and the regular Wednesday night swimming trips to the Brookline Pool.

DuBois-Printed Book

Wins All-American Contest as Best College Annual

THE Lucky Bag is the Annual of the Regiment of Midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. The June 1928 book won the All-American contest sponsored by The Scholastic Editor as the best College Annual of the year. The vote of the following committee was unanimous:

MR. LEWIS M. PRYOR of The Pryor Press
MR. JOHN P. PAULSON of College Humor
MR. EDWARD G. JOHNSON of J. M. Bundscho, Inc.

We quote from their letters:

"The very high quality of the Lucky Bag was achieved by having craftsmen of real ability to do the work. We, at the Pryor Press, have been very close to the school field for many years through our school poster service. From time to time we have noticed many annuals and often we have gritted our teeth at the poor printing sometimes displayed. The color work, composition, make ready—and everything else concerning the printing of the Lucky Bag—left little to be desired. Please accept the compliments of this company for your very good work."—LEWIS M. PRYOR.

"The 1928 Lucky Bag which won the prize as the best College Annual in America, won that prize because it was most excellently printed and planned. Our art director, Mr. Tom Burroughs and myself, went over some of these Annuals and in our estimation the Lucky Bag was the best all around Annual we had seen printed for some years. The cover was attractive, the printing was well done, and there was an excellent use of color—just the right amount. In our estimation it was a perfect engraving and printing job. You certainly ought to be congratulated for printing this Annual and also I notice that you have printed other Lucky Bags which have won prizes."—JOHN P. PAULSON.

"There never was any doubt in mind as to the position of the Lucky Bag. It was far superior in most every manner to the other books submitted. In fact, it was a treat to go through it, and note its genuine thought and careful workmanship. It stuck out against the field so that it was not a difficult pick."—EDWARD G. JOHNSON.

The DuBois Press shares this honor with the Bureau of Engraving of Minneapolis which designed and engraved the Lucky Bag and the J. F. Tapley Company of Long Island City, the binders.

In fairness to all concerned The DuBois Press feels that Midshipman Ralph K. James, the Editor, should have major recognition. His masterful work in heading up a versatile staff was outstanding. He practically created the ideas around which the book was designed and built.

Slattery is a student too---a student of fashion

And Slattery specializes very carefully in their study. They study particularly the phases of fashion that Wellesley Students are interested in. And they study their instructors, the Wellesley girls themselves.

That is why the woman in charge of our shop—a Wellesley graduate herself—confers so constantly with the girls she is outfitting. And that is why in the Slattery Shops in Wellesley and in Boston, you find the best of college fashions and the most popular fads. We are always glad to see Alumnae and hope the class of 1929 will often come back to see us.

The Senior Art-ists Dream

THE SCENE—Before a "temple in Antis."

THE CHARACTERS—A man and a girl. She was pretty and miniature, strikingly Romanesque in her gown of terra-cotta ornamented with beading. She wore a single pil-aster in the hair which rippled in a wave pattern about her marble temples. But he, alas, was inclined to be a bit rotunda; the molding of his figure was decidedly in the round.

The man spoke, his voice was tumulus with emotion, "Beloved!"

Her voice was Ionic, "That's Capital, but Archaic. I suppose I should cry, 'Base nave, how dare you?' Come now, don't start any necking!"

"Well, it's not my vault. I feel sort of loggie whenever I look at you. When I first met you I said to myself, 'Amphora! She's the girl for me; I'll have her or bust!' "

Encouraged by her silence, he smiled with high relief, showing his dentils, and rumpled his hair, so carefully slicked back with Byzantine. "Now, listen, Basilica, dear, there does not a-pier to be a single im-pediment to our marriage. I'm a good Presbyterium, though I don't believe in Baptistry, and I have a fine job on the Boston Transept. We'll go to Frescoe for our honey-moon, and aisle invest my engaged capital in a little home. You shall plan it from attic to cella!"

She looked up with a crypt-ic, stilted arch smile. "Isn't this a rather concentric way to play Plinth Charming? But at least, with your oratory, you have told a clerestory about your advantages." Then, her voice friezing to a stele tone, "Why, you rude squinch!" she cried, peripterally. "Such dull and mosaic talk is quite decadent to me. Bas! Relief from your company is all Eikon desire!"
